1. Introduction

The Government at both Central and State level established various financial Institutions to provide non-financial and financial assistances to small-scale industries. As the small-scale industries are weak financial structure, they require non-financial assistances, so that, they could compete with large scale industries. The government established various institutions to provide non-financial assistances exclusively to the small-scale industries. In the same way there are institutions in addition to commercial banks which cater to the financial requirements of small scale industries. In this chapter an attempt has been made to present the various institutions involved in providing financial and non-financial assistances to small-scale industries.

Institutional Finance with the launching of the Five Year Plans, in the absence of a sufficiently broad domestic capital market, there was need for adopting and enlarging the institutional structure to meet the medium and long-term credit requirements of the industrial sector. It was in this context that the RBI took the initiative in setting-up statutory corporations at the all-India and’ regional levels to function as specialized financial agencies purveying term credit.

4. Undertakes monitoring and evaluation of projects refinanced by it.
5. NABARD refines the financial institutions which finances the rural sector.

The other financial institutions are:

1. Small Industries Development Organisation (SIDO):
   SIDO is a policy-making, coordinating and monitoring agency for the development of small scale entrepreneurs. It maintains a close liaison with government, financial institutions and other agencies which are involved in the promotion and development of small scale units. It provides a comprehensive range of consultancy services and technical, managerial, economic and marketing assistance to SSI units. It has a network of 28 Small Industries Service Institutes, 30 branch SISIs, 37 Extension Centres, four Regional Testing Centres, one Product and Process Development Centre, three Footwear Training Centres and five Production Centres and ten Field Testing Centres.

Functions:

The main functions of the SIDO are coordination, industrial development and industrial extension service. Some important functions are:

a) To assess the requirements of indigenous and imported raw materials and components for the small scale sector and to arrange their supplies;

b) To collect data on consumer items which are imported, and encourage the setting up of new units by giving them coordinated assistance;

c) To prepare model schemes, project reports and other technical literature for prospective entrepreneurs;

d) To secure reservations of certain products for the SSIs.

e) To provide consultancy and training services and marketing assistance to improve the competitive strength of small scale units.

f) To evolve a national policy for the development of SSIs and coordinate the policies and programmes of various State Governments SIDO is now known as micro, small and medium enterprises development organisation.

2. National Small Industries Corporation Limited (NSIC):
The NSIC was set up in 1955 with the objective of supplying machinery and equipment to small enterprises on a hire-purchase basis and assisting them in procuring Government orders for various items of stores. NSIC provides a wide range of promotional services to small scale units

a) The Corporation’s Head Office is at Delhi and it has four regional offices at Delhi, Bombay, Madras and Calcutta, and eleven branch offices. It has one central liaison office at Delhi and depots and sub-centres. The main functions of NSIC are: To develop small scale units as ancillary units to large-scale industries.

b) To provide SSIs with machines on hire-purchase basis.

c) To assist small enterprises to participate in the stores purchase programme of the central government.

d) To assist small industries with marketing facilities.

e) To distribute basic raw materials through their depots.

f) To import and distribute components and parts to actual small scale users in specific industries.

g) To construct Industrial estates and establish and run prototype production-cum-training centres.

h) To develop small scale industries in other developing countries on turnkey basis.

The NSIC has taken up the challenging task of promoting and developing small scale industries almost from scratch and has adopted an ‘integrated approach’ to achieve the socio-economic objectives.

NSIC, in consultation with Rating Agencies and Indian Banks Association, has formulated Performance & Credit Rating Scheme for Small Industries. The Scheme is aimed to create awareness amongst small enterprises about the strengths and weakness of their existing operations and to provide them an opportunity to enhance their organisational strengths and credit worthiness.

NSIC acts as a facilitator to promote marketing efforts and enhance the competency of the small enterprises for capturing the new market opportunities by way of organizing participating in various domestic and international exhibitions/trade fairs, buyers seller meets, intensive campaigns seminars and consortia formation. NSIC helps small enterprises to participate in international/national exhibitions/trade fairs at the subsidized rates to exhibit and market their products, participation in these events provides small enterprises an exposure to the national/international markets.

Buyer Seller Meets are being organized to bring bulk buyers/government departments and micro & small enterprises together at one platform. This enables micro & small enterprises to know the requirements of bulk buyers on the one hand and help the bulk buyers to know the capabilities of micro & small enterprises for their purchases. Intensive campaigns and seminars are organized all over the country to disseminate/propagate about the various schemes for the benefit of the small enterprises and to enrich the knowledge of small enterprises regarding latest developments, quality standards etc.

3. Directorates of Industries of the State Governments:

   The small-scale Industries is a State subject and, therefore, the development and implementation of the schemes of assistance to SSIs is the primary responsibility of the State Government. Directorates of Industries in each State do the work relating to the development of industries in general and small scale industries in particular. Each directorate is stalled with administration and technical officers at State headquarters and by a District Industries Officer with supporting staff in each district. The State Directorates run various training schemes, production schemes and common facilities schemes. They also provide facilities of developed industrial land and factory sheds in industrial estates, allocate quotas of scarce raw materials, certify import requirements and organize industrial cooperatives. Their functions are varied and have grown with the development and diversification of the small scale sector.
